DARKER RACES IGNORED.

As much comment as there has been on the different problems created by the present world war, strange it is that there has been little, if any thought as to how the general outcome is going to effect the various races in their relation one to the other. The idea advanced by the Caucasians, that the white race is and always will be supreme, seems to prevail over any other that might attempt to arise.

A little thought on the situation, however might cause some doubts as to whether this supremacy can be maintained regardless of the length of the conflict and in spite of the tremendous sacrifices being made by all of the nations involved. Up-to-date more than 10,000,000 white men have been sacrificed on the field of battle, and in addition, thousands have suffered and died, because of their proximity to the conflict and through the sinking of ships, although there have been men of other races participating in the war, yet so strong is the inclination of the larger nations to keep the other races out of it, that their casualties have been infinitesimal compared to the white race.

This tendency to exclude the other races, is noticeable not only in our own country where they are slow in calling the drafted Negroes to the colors, but is also noticeable in the attitude of France and England. A few months ago, Japan offered to send 200,000 men to France to assist the allies on that front, but up to date we notice that Japan has confined her activities to the far east, yet France is crying for men. More than that number of Russians have been transported thither, since the Japanese offer was made and, every wind that blows to America bears the cry of "more-men". If this war is to continue for a very much longer time at the present rate of loss and suffering; then it is inevitable that the white race that is making these unprecedented sacrifices must as a whole become weaker in its relation to the other races than it was previous to the conflict. Japan already has grown fat through her commercial activities in Asia; China shows signs of awakening; all over the world the darker races are beginning to realize that they too are men and are forming in their hearts a strong desire to fill a man's place and exert a man's right in the world's affairs.

They tell us the war must continue until Germany is crushed. The strength of the Germans seems to be like a mill that is steadily grinding. The allies are feeding their man-power daily into this mill, so the question that the allies with their prejudice should ask themselves is, how long will their man-power last?

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

70 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The St. Louis Branch N. A. A. C. P. respectfully suggests, and urges, that your headquarters devises some concerted action by all branches of the Association to the end of correcting the unfair attitude of the national government of the United States toward the drafted colored men and the prospective colored officers of the National Army.

The air of indecision assumed by the war department in the matter of mobilizing colored troops and the postponement in issuing commissions to colored officers who have undergone prescribed training, while it will fail in its evident purpose to belittle colored citizenship, is nevertheless a widely resented insult.

This hesitancy on the part of the National Administration clearly shows either gross incompetency, which is improbable, or condemnable, gratuitous insult to colored citizenry, which is in accord with so much that has distinguished, and inspired contempt for, this present administration.

We believe that citizens who assume the estate of soldiers to preserve this nation through the perils of war should be immune from the insecurities of those to whom the lottery of politics has given, more or less temporary, authority; and we urge that such axiom be forcefully impressed upon the dastardly officials at Washington as a plainly needed ethical instruction.

Yours Fraternally,

ST. LOUIS BRANCH N. A. A. C. P.

GEORGE WHITFIELD RETURNS TO SCHOOL

Another of our old, old residents, also an active church worker, Mr. L. W. Fields, was bartended by the Corinthian Baptist Church, Sunday, September 24, 1917.

He was a member of Corinthian for twenty years and served as supervisor of the Sunday school for twelve consecutive years. He was highly respected by the members of his church, and a favorite with the children, especially of his wife, while the children adored him. He was a Mason, U. B. F. and K. P. but was buried with U. B. F. honors. We are loath to give him away, but consoling ourselves with the thought that we shall see him again, we have to let him go.

"Why Will He Die?" May the angels feel your deep sympathy.

Cupids seem to be hovering around the 6100 block on Vermont. We wonder what lad and lassie he will claim.
